TRUST YOUR SMILE TO A SPECIALIST

Dr. Marshall Fagin
Prosthodontist

Q: I know I have a difficult bite and challenging cosmetic makeover. Should I see a Prosthodontist for my restorations?

A: Some General Dentists have continued their education over the years for this, but often refer these patients to Prosthodontists. Extensive training and education provide Prosthodontists with the skills and knowledge for treating many diverse and more complex dental conditions, while restoring optimum function and aesthetics to your smile. Serving as the "architect" of a dental treatment plan, Prosthodontists often collaborate with a team of other dental specialists as partners in creating optimal results. Prosthodontists are experts in aesthetics. Having a second opinion with a specialist often provides clarity.
